

Sunday Grace Notes

Anchored In Grace

Front Porch

NEWSLETTER

Where my front porch meets the sea

Matthew 8:27 So the men marveled, saying, “Who can this be, that even the winds and the sea obey Him?”

Making it Through

Even when you think you aren't

Sometimes we need to go through the hard things. We experience the rough spots. We go it alone. I've been thinking about the single moms/dads, grands, or aunties, whoever, are going it alone. There are so many reasons why.

God sees all your efforts. He sees all the sacrifices made. There are times you think you haven't made any kind of impact, any kind of progress, you feel like everything you've done has been for naught. You're tired in every way possible and it doesn't seem fair when you count things up. But the thing is, friend, God is a gentle Saviour. He is gracious and loves us so deeply that He goes far beyond this temporal satisfaction or displays of outward accolades. His priority is giving you the VERYBEST not just here, but for your eternal and spiritual wellbeing. Don't give up. You are seen. You are valued. You are loved.

Grab yourself a cup and sit with me here on the front porch. This is where the conversation is rich with insight, deep with understanding, and anchored in grace and faith for the everyday tide.

anchoredingrace-frontporch.com

Anchored in Grace

FAITH FOR THE EVERYDAY TIDE